PITIABLE FATE

Probable Murder of an Unknown Stranger.

Found Dead After His Carcass Is Devoured By Hogs.

The dead body of an unknown white man was found near Pembroke Tuesday by Rural Mail Carrier E. F. Coyner. Mr. Coyner saw some hogs tearing at an object in the woods near Mr. R. F. Chilton's and stopped to investigate.

He found the object to be the corpse of a well dressed stranger. The features of the corpse had been badly mutilated and the stomach torn open by the hogs. There were no marks by which the dead man could be identified. The body was taken to Pembroke and the corner held an inquest.

Some new facts were developed at the coroner's inquest Wednesday. The indications are that the man was murdered Saturday night. He was in Pembroke Saturday and bought a bottle of whiskey, and displayed a roll of paper money. He was comfortably dressed, having on a suit of dark blue clothes, with a workman's suit over them. He also had an overcoat and a valise. Saturday night he was seen camping near where his body was found. Sunday morning his fire was out and he had disappeared. Tuesday his body was found hidden under the pile of rails fifty feet from the fire. The frame of his valise and parts of his overcoat were found in the fire, having been burned. His pockets were turned inside out and there was blood around the fire and on a tree and also on the ground where the body was dragged 50 feet to be concealed.

The man's throat was terribly torn. It had evidently been cut and the murderer wiped his bloody knife on the bark of a tree by the fire. The back of his skull was also crushed. The man's shoes had been taken off and were gone. Nothing remained from his rifled pockets except a red handkerchief, the empty whiskey bottle, two pipes, a comb and a new file.

The man was heavy set, with very black hair and long black whiskers. He had a long scar on his right arm, evidently an old cut. The jury, of which J. M. Rose was foreman, brought in a verdict of probable murder.

OLDEST WOMAN

In Christian County Dead at Age of 115.

Sophia Blakemore, col., the oldest woman in Christian county died at her home in Gainesville Wednesday. She was born in Virginia in the year 1788, and was therefore 115 years old. She came to Kentucky more than one hundred years ago.

She was the mother of sixteen children, the youngest of whom is now 73 years old and lives in this city.

She also has a number of great-grandchildren.

She had enjoyed good health up to within a day of her death.

She was a member of the Baptist church.

The funeral was preached yesterday by the Rev. Joe Buckner. Interment in the colored cemetery.

LITTLE DOING

In Tobacco Circles On Account Of Cold Wave.

The cold wave had a rather depressing effect upon the tobacco business in all its branches and there has been little doing this week. The weed is in bad order for handling and the work of preparing it for the market has been suspended until a more favorable season prevails.

Private sales this week amounted to 30 hogsheads. Sales for the year, 9,600 hogsheads. Receipts for the year, 11,345 hogsheads.

DISCRIMINATION.

Report That Cumberland Telephone Co. Shows its Teeth.

Hopkinsville's Todd County Territory Made Free to Clarksville.

Todd county is now deriving the benefits of vigorous competition in the telephone line. The Home Telephone Company, of Clarksville, is forcing the Cumberland Company to cut its rates and to modernize its service as far as it is able to do so with the Bell patents. In Todd county, where the Home people are now competing for the country business, word comes from a subscriber that two or more exchanges in the county have been put on one service for $1.65 a month for residences. There are exchanges at four or five towns in the county. In this county the country people are charged $2 a month, with as many as six on a line without secret attachments, and the service is limited to either Hopkinsville or Pembroke. The subscribers have not the advantage of a county exchange, as is the case in Todd.

But this is not all, the Todd county patrons have recently been connected with the Clarksville exchange free, at the same price. This is what competition is doing in Clarksville, but in the meantime the Cumberland Company is under a written contract, in the absence of a franchise, to give the people of Hopkinsville as good a service as it does other cities of like conditions. It remains to be seen whether the city council will permit the city of Hopkinsville to be discriminated against in favor of a rival city, in its legitimate territory. Our merchants are directly interested in the business of Trenton, Guthrie and other Todd county towns and when Clarksville is given a free service with these towns and Hopkinsville is denied the same privilege, it is an unjust and unfair discrimination against a city that the Cumberland claims is its "Home office. It is time for the council to annul the contract of August, 1902, and let the Cumberland go into the courts and establish its claims to "a perpetual and unrestricted franchise," under a permit annulled 17 years ago. The council declared the poles to be a nuisance nearly seventeen years ago, and had them cut down and has never given permission to have them put up again.

Cumberland Co. Writes a Letter.

The patrons of the Cumberland Company in this city this week received a circular letter from Nashville warning them not to sign long contracts with new companies. This in the face of the fact that they attempted this game themselves last summer and did bind up some subscribers with annual contracts who have been unable to get their contracts returned since the Kentuckian forced the Cumberland to publicly repudiate its own business methods, because they were "unsatisfactory to the people." It may be said for the Home Telephone Company that it requires no long contracts, but will stand on its merits and the superiority of its service. In the above mentioned circular, the Cumberland people say "we will if such competitors make reduced rates, meet the same in any manner necessary to maintain our business." In the next breath they add: "This company has never cut its standard business rate in any place where a second company has appeared." This can mean but one of two things. The Cumberland proposes to cut its present exorbitant rates down to "its standard business rate," as in other cities; or it proposes to "meet" prices fixed by the council by doing what it has never done before. In either event, the indications are that the Cumberland, like the coon up the tree, is already getting "skinned."
